Make Plans for Annual Carnival

Each summer the New Lenox Lions club has a festival and auction as means of raising funds for its various charities and community aid. The affair is held on the grounds surrounding the Lions Den on South Cedar rd. Pictured here are the three men who are in charge this year as they sit around a table at the Den to map out plans. Left to right are, Elmer Goldenstern and Charles Carnahan, general co-chairman, and Frank Chandler, chairman of the committee in charge of the auction. And speaking of the auction, those in charge will take anything from apparel to zinc. The Lions carnival will be held July 20-21 this year.

St. Mary's to Open Annual Fiesta July 13

7 p.m. on Friday, July 13, the kick-off hour for St. Mary's Annual Fiesta will arrive. This giant carnival is expected to draw hundreds of visitors to Mokena. With its many and varied attractions, the Fiesta should answer the desires of all who attend. An all-out effort is being made by the people of St. Mary's in their venture to raise money to help cover the cost of a newly dedicated church and school building. The school was opened to the children of the community last November. The first mass was celebrated by its pastor, Fr. Cecil Koop O.F.M. on Christmas Eve.

A huge searchlight will act as a beacon to guide visitors to the scene of festivities—195th and Wolf Road, Mokena.

Each night of the 10-day affair, valuable attendance prizes will be awarded. On the closing night, July 22, a Ford tudor sedan as well as a Dormeyer silencer and a chief food mixer will serve the major prizes.

As an added attraction, a delicious home cooked family style chicken dinner has been planned for Sunday, July 15. Homemade pies and cakes will be served off an excellent meal. Service starts at noon and continues throughout the day.

"For those who have attended St. Mary's dinners in the past, no more need be said. . . . It to our new friends we say come to St. Mary's for one of the best dinners you have ever eaten," said the committee in charge.

Everyone is welcome.

Voters Approve Consolidation Move in Homer

Voters of Homer township, including those in the Marley school district, voted four to one Saturday for consolidating four one-room and one two-room districts into one.

There were 176 persons who voted in favor of consolidation while 44 voted against the move. Three ballots were spoiled.

There was but one polling place, Homer town hall. The poll opened at 12 noon and closed at 7 p.m.

Will County Superintendent of Schools, Verne E. Crackel, has called another special school election for July 28 for the purpose of electing a seven-member board of education. Nominating petitions must be filed at Crackel's office in the courthouse by July 7.

The districts involved were Nos. 127, 128, 130, 131, and 135.

Figures at Supt. Crackel's office show that the five districts had a total enrollment of 110 in the past school year—19 in the first grade, 11 in the second, 15 in the third, 14 in the fourth, 13 in the fifth, 16 in the sixth, and 11 each in the seventh and eighth grades.

A tentative budget for the new district as prepared by Supt. Crackel lists $26,150 for educational purposes and $1,800 for repairs and maintenance of building.

A combined tax rate of 84.4 cents per $100 assessed valuation would meet the needs of the consolidated district, he believes. Of this 57 cents would be for the educational fund; six cents for building and 21.4 for debt retirement—which would cover $100,000 over a 20-year period.

The combined five districts have an assessed valuation of $3,116,492. The rate for educational purposes was 56.9 per $100 valuation and the rate for the building fund, 6.56. The average overall rate, Supt. Crackel said, was 68.84 cents per $100 valuation.

Under the new set up the district is required to furnish transportation for the pupils, it was stated.

Claims Blue Ballot Bad For Schools

The financial plight of Illinois schools will not be improved by adoption of the proposed Revenue Amendment to the state constitution, according to a panel discussion held in Olympia Field, Ill., as part of the South Area Industrial Conference.

School bonding power will actually be reduced, George E. Mahin, executive director of the Taxpayers Information Council, warned in urging defeat of the proposed amendment which will be submitted on a Blue Ballot at the Nov. 6 general election.

The Illinois constitution now limits school bonding power to 5 per cent of assessed valuation of property within the school district, Mahin pointed out. Elimination of any part of the personal property tax, which is suggested by supporters of the amendment, would reduce the assessment base and would proportionately reduce bonding power, Mahin said.

"Complete elimination of the tax on personal property valuation would reduce bonding power of unit and elementary districts in Illinois by 238 million dollars. Instead of helping to solve school building problems, adoption of the proposed amendment would intensify them."

James E. Pease, superintendent of schools in LaGrange, warned that the proposed amendment goes too far and could create problems more severe than the ones schools now face.

He pointed out that the legislature has the power now to pass legislation that would help the schools. He called for increased state financial support for the schools, for legislative action permitting local districts to increase their local taxes thru referendum, and for creation of a revolving state fund which school districts could use to pay for new building over a long period.

los Park; four brother, Howard, Raymond and Walter of Orland and William of Rockford.

Fire of undetermined origin broke out suddenly Monday afternoon in the building of the former Kaylen Manufacturing company in Lincoln Estates, located on route 30 between Hill side and River roads. The structure was destroyed. The building is not being used now except for storage of the machine-made electric relays. It is owned by the Leonard Cummings.

As Mrs. Cummings was in the yard about 4:30 in the afternoon she noticed smoke coming from the rafters of the two story building. She at once called the Frankfort fire department which responded quickly. By then the building was a mass of flames and the Mokena and Tinley Park fire departments were called in order to help protect the residence of the Cummings family and other nearby buildings. All departments worked valiantly with the result that the vacant factory was the only building which burned. Building and contents were a total loss.

It is believed that because the extreme hot weather Monday and the building being closed, that spontaneous combustion might have been the cause.

Since the closing down of the Kaylen company Mr. Cummings is employed at the Bennett industries at Peotone and was home at the time of the fire.

Frankfort Girl Back From Illinois Girls State Camp

Janet Bauch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Bauch of Frankfort who attended Girls State and is now home again expressed her appreciation to all concerned with her selection as a delegate.

Janet, a student at Lincoln Way High school, was selected by the American Legion Auxiliary, of Frankfort to attend the 16th annual Illini Girls State held on the campus of Mac Murray college in Jacksonville from June 19 to 27. She served as clerk of elections there.

The 467 teen-age girls who attended received practical instructions on civic and political procedure.

On the lighter side, a model school held a demonstration with a living model, instructing the teen-agers on correct ways to walk, stand, and sit.

The convention opened Monday, July 2 and is to end tomorrow, July 6.

High Priority

Jails held high priority on the building programs of early Illinois counties. In numerous instances they were built even before the court-houses.

A room to serve the occasional needs of the small staff of county officials and to house the new county's meager records was often found "at the residence of" some citizen. There were no places available, however, to serve as ready-made jails. Since buildings adaptable to use for jails were not available, it was necessary to erect them.

In almost all cases these buildings were small, separate structures made of logs. They obviously were intended for security and not for comfort or convenience. No record has been found for heating one of these jails. They were not meant for extended stays of prisoners. Rather, they were primarily to keep culprits secure until trial had been held and those adjudged guilty could receive "lashes on the bare back well laid on" or could spend the hours prescribed in the county pillory or stocks.

A number of specifications for early jails are found among the records of older counties. Those for the jail erected at Brownsville, county seat of Jackson county, in 1825 very well illustrate the manner in which they were built.

On December 6, 1824 the County Commissioners Court of Jackson county voted to build a new jail to replace the one erected there when the county was formed in 1816. They located the new two-story jail on the northeast corner of Lot 75, purchased from Jess Griggs for $4, in the promising village of Brownsville. This one may be considered as typical of the jails of that time, perhaps being better built than the average.

The Brownsville prison had a "foundation laid of rock 17 feet and two inches square on the outside and three feet six inches thick...said foundation to extend 18 inches into the ground and one foot above." It had a "floor laid thereon of hewn whiteoak timbers one foot square to extend over the whole of said foundation except 13 inches on each side with a floor of white oak planks two inches thick well spiked to be laid thereon." The first floor was thus 14 inches thick.

The lower story had a heavy outside wall that was really three walls. The inner layer of this wall was "12 feet square in the clear" and was made of "hewn white oak timbers 10 inches thick well dovetailed at the corners." The next or middle layer was of "upright timbers six inches thick...well aquared...with bottoms standing on the rock foundation." The third or outer layers was a wall of "brick and lime 13 inches thick." The total thickness of the walls of the lower story was this 29 inches.

The next floor which also served as the floor of the second story was "of hewn whiteoak timbers 12 inches square to extend over the timbers of the lower floor to the brick walls and to be notched down to the timbers of the lower story with a half dovetail and a flooring of inch oak planks well laid thereon." The ceiling height of both the lower and upper rooms was "seven feet in the clear."

There was one doorway located on the south side of the lower room. It was "five feet and a half inch high and two feet four inches in the clear." The frame of this door, six inches thick, was "well pinned to the timbers and walls with a six quarter (one and one-half inch) auger." Two doors were hung at this doorway, "one door to open inward and one door to open outward." They were made of "two inch oak planks well lined with inch oak planks and spiked full with iron spikes." Both doors were "well secured with bolts, iron hinges and locks."

The specifications as first written said "there shall be in the lower story a window 12 inches square made by cutting half through two logs and space left in the outer brick wall." This window was to have four one inch iron bars across it "left into the timbers five inches at each end." A later order added another "window of the same size as the one in the old order."

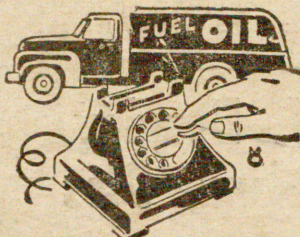

The second story was much like the first one except for the omission of the center layer of the walls. Its ceiling like the floors of the first and second stories was "laid of squared whiteoak timbers 12 inches square...well pinned down." The upper room had two windows 12 by 12 inches. Its doorway, "six feet high and two feet two inches in the clear" was "finished in the same manner as the lower door." It was reached by "a flight of stairs from the ground to a platform on a line with the second floor."

The contract for the erection of this building was awarded to David Husband. For $1000 he agreed to "complete said building in a strong and workmanlike manner and suitable for a jail." It was received by the county on September 29, 1825.

Despite the sturdiness with which it was built, this jail has long since vanished along with all the other buildings of the village. A few stones in the ground mark the site on which it stood. When we last visited the site, tall weeds and ground hogs were in control.

Trips on Traffic Safety

By
CHARLES F. CARPENTIER
Secretary of State

With spring already here and summer not too far distant, now is a good time for a spring checkup of your car's mechanical condition. Your car faces longer and faster driving than it has had for the last few months if you are planning weekend trips or plan to use your car for a vacation trip.

SPRING CHECKUP

Highway speeds and trips covering long distances call for your car to be in the best possible mechanical condition. It is easy to picture the hopeless position of even the most skilled of drivers if the steering mechanism should fail while traveling along at highway speed.

You can avoid suddenly finding yourself in just such a position by having the brakes, steering and wheels checked and any defects corrected beforehand. Also, make sure your tires are in good condition.

A copy of the completely new "Rules of the Road" booklet will be sent to you free upon request. Write to CHARLES F. CARPENTIER, Secretary of State, Springfield, Illinois.

Proper Clothes Give Protection Against Insects

Summer insects needn't spoil your outings when you know how to deal with them.

Clothing that's tight at the ankles and wrists plus a generous application of insect repellent around your legs and arms will help to prevent insect bites, says Pauline Brimhall, University of Illinois health education specialist.

Keep a mild antiseptic on hand to treat insect bites. Calamine lotion helps to relieve itching of chigger and mosquito bites.

To treat a bee sting, first remove the stinger. Apply a paste of baking soda. Then put on a cold application.

Wood ticks are a menace to campers and picnickers because they sometimes carry Rocky Mountain spotted fever. If you must go into woods where you know there are ticks, dust or spray your clothing with a tick repellent. Remove any ticks as soon as you come out! If they are attached to the skin, pull them off gently, being sure not to crush them.

Here's Chance to Make Talents Pay-- At the Fairs

If your family or community has any accordion or boccie ball players, antique auto enthusiasts, baton twirlers, dahlia growers, horseshoe pitchers or rug hookers, E. H. Regnier, University of Illinois rural recreationist suggests that you urge them to enter the county and state fairs.

With your cooperation, these fairs will be events for you to take part in rather than ones at which you merely spend money for the concessions, says Regnier.

There's still time to prepare for your county fair, which will serve as a warm-up for the Illinois State Fair, August 10-19 in Springfield. Most entries for State Fair close August 1, but some events call for registration or competition the day of the final event.

For information on your county fair or State fair, see your farm or home adviser.

What Do YOU Think

The appearance of this week's issue in tabloid is in the nature of an experiment.

We have been thinking about such a move since it was decided to adopt such a format for the Tinley Park Times.

To be frank, it poses less of a mechanical problem if all of the papers printed are in tabloid form than to have one as such and the others appear in standard 8-column size.

But as we stated, this is an experiment as far as the issuance of your paper is concerned. We intend to give the subject further thought but in the meantime we would be glad to have your opinion.

CANCER CLINIC

Dr. Paul E. Landmann, director of the Will-Grundy County Cancer Diagnostic clinic announces there will be a meeting of the clinic July 10 and 24 from 10 to 11 a.m. Patients attending must have a referral from or be accompanied by a physician or dentist.

New Grade of
Beef Makes Debut
On Retail Market

Have you seen the new grade of beef, U.S. Standard, on the market this month? This new grade comes between U.S. Good and U.S. Commercial, says Mrs. Dorothy McIvor, University of Illinois foods specialist.

Under the new grading system, young beef animals with a limited amount of fattening will be graded Standard. The older animals will still be graded U.S. Commercial and will be less tender than the Standard cuts.

To cook the new Standard grade beef, use moist heat and cook slowly for a rather long time to get the most tenderness.

You may want to review the grading scale used by the U.S. Department of Agriculture--U.S.

Prime, U.S. Choice, U.S. Good, U.S. Standard and U.S. Commercial.

Prime and Choice, both tender and fattened cuts, produce most of the steaks and roasts eaten. U.S. Good, which is not so heavily fattened, is next in the scale. The new U.S. Standard is just below it, followed by the U.S. Commercial.

Investment clubs have proven themselves to be an easy and effective method of investing small sums each month and also giving its members an education in investment analysis. There are now thousands of such clubs with members paying as little as $10 per month and seldom more than $25 per month.

Briefly, an Investment club is a group of friends or acquaintances who band together to conduct a mutual investment program. The only requirement for membership is that each member be over 21. There are no dues or membership fees of any kind. Instead each member pays in a fixed number of dollars each month and collectively the membership invests it.

Experience indicates that groups of 10 to 15 members are generally most flexible. Each club should have a definite expiration date (say 5 to 10 years) in its Articles of Agreement so that it will not be taxed as a corporation.

If an Investment club gets started right, there is little danger of failure. The members should remember that they are an investment club and not a speculative club. Monthly meetings are usually held in the home or office of a member. Investment club members learn by doing how the securities markets function. Knowledge of finance is not necessary because members learn as they participate. Most clubs name a committee of three or four members to report back to the membership each month on the security selected. Such committee memberships usually rotate each month so that each member gets a chance to do some intensive work. The membership can accept, modify, or reject the committee recommendations.

Clubs of all types have been formed; husband-wife groups, church groups etc.

A broker-advisor is usually selected who will execute orders of the membership. The broker-advisor or his firm are never eligible for membership. The firm can, however, act as custodian of the securities purchased and receive dividends etc. with monthly reports to the Treasurer and thereby reduce bookkeeping duties. Adding new members or withdrawals from the group, are made easy by originating memberships in units of $10. Thus evaluation of membership can be made at any time desired.

The pathway to form an Investment club is made simple. Because of the rapid spread of the idea, a non-profit organization known as the National Association of Investment Clubs, 2232 National Bank Bldg., Detroit, Mich., was formed several years ago. At a cost of $3, the NAIC furnishes a booklet with: (1) Model Articles of Agreement; (2) Suggested Investment Policy; (3) Record Keeping; (4) Reporting for Income Tax; and (5) Check List Company study.

Membership dues in NAIC are one dollar per member per year which entitles the club to a monthly news letter setting forth suggestions and detailing activities of other clubs with their investment experience and suggestions.

This column will aid in formation of Investment clubs.

Highlights Of Farm Life

By W. F. Whiteside
Cook Co. Asst. Farm Advisor

Camp Shaw-waw-nas-see was summing last week. Two hundred and ninety-two 4H boys and girls can make most anything hum. Camp spirit was high all week in spite of frequent dark clouds and intermittent rain. William Hughes of Joliet, Camp Director, an this staff worked smoothly and efficiently and played a key role in a successful week. As Camp Chief, I received excellent cooperation from campers and counselors alike in administering and supervising the many camp activities. I would like to thank all these fine people. It was a pleasure to work with all of you. Cook County's camp delegation numbered 141 boys and girls and 15 counselors. Among the agricultural 4H campers were:

Camping is a wonderful experience and these youngsters assured me they enjoyed themselves and were looking forward to 4H Camp next year.

Floyd Adair of Chicago Heights, president of the South Cook 4H Fair association, and committees of the Board, are shaping up plans for the 4H fair. The fair will be held in Chicago Heights, 1-4 mile south of Bloom Township high school, west of Dixie highway, Aug. 17, 18 and 19. Visitors to the fair will see 4H exhibits, exhibits by merchants and businessmen, and machinery and auto exhibits. Entertainment by local people, professional entertainers and 4-H groups will be offered each day. The Fair will be opened with the raising of the American Flag by the King and Queen of last year's Fair, Julia Grav of Palos Heights and Walter Bernard of Mokena. Everyone loves a Fair, why not plan to attend the 1956 4H Fair?

Has the forage growth in your dairy pasture started to slow down? Remember the protein content goes down rapidly. Protein content goes down rapidly when pasture growth begins to slow down. Although a mixture of farm grains alone will supplement early spring pasture, you probably should add some protein supplement to the grain mixture from now through out the summer. If you have good midsummer grass legume pasture, use a grain mixture containing about 13 to 15 percent of total protein, and feed at the rate of one pound of mix to five pounds of milk produced for the low testing breeds, and one pound of mix to four pounds of milk for the higher testers. If the pasture is poor, you may need more grain.

Laguna Woods

Mrs. Robert Anderson
Fieldbrook 9-2857

The beautification committee has added to the appearance of the entrance to Laguna Woods by erecting a rustic redwood fence on either side of the road at 30th avenue at 135th st. Deeks Carroll, John Arnold and Joey Millitello worked on the project under the direction of Mrs. Arthur Arnold and Mrs. George Carroll.

Six signs have been erected in the area; three reading, "Dead End" and three, "Please Drive Slowly, we love our children." The sign posts are attractive rustic looking.

If you haven't already signed the petition to elect two members for the school board will you please contact Mr. Carroll.

Landscaping is in progress at the Ralph Leelands, Frank Millitello and Al Karres. The H. L. Woodburys grounds have been completed and all have that spacious well kept look.

The Wm. Murphy's and son Bill Jr. who is home from college for the summer were at the site of their new home June 23 where they were busily painting window frames. The Murphys were joined by the William Bells and their son Billy who had been clearing underbrush and cutting small trees on the Bells property. The two families enjoyed a picnic lunch on the Murphys future patio that overlooks acres of scenic farmland.

The Andersons entertained with a family barbeque June 29 the Henry Andersons, Mrs. M. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hunter and the Everett Dummies all of Chicago on the patio.

The Ray Tondrykes of Kenosha, Wis. were weekend guests of the John Tabberts.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. John Tabbert enjoyed an evening of bowling last Saturday. They, like many other Laguna residents, belong to a bowling league.

Jim Bendix is attending summer day camp for two weeks.

Rainbow Boy Scout Council Opens Camp

The Rainbow Council Boy Scout Reservation located five miles southwest of Morris is now a bee-hive of activity as Sunday June 24, officially opened the season of scout camping with over 200 boys and adult leaders registering.

The boys are having a wonderful time participating in the various program activities provided for them. These activities include, swimming, boating, canoeing, rifle shooting archery scoutcraft. Star hikes, bird hikes and nature hikes are also available.

Last week is the first of six weeks which the camp will be open to scouts of the Rainbow Council.

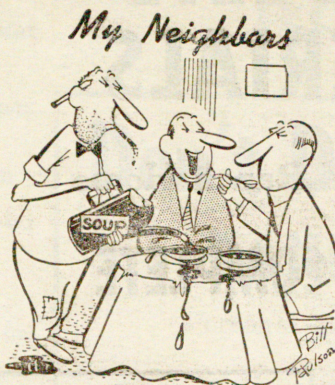

Highlights of the week include "Big Night" Wednesday evening at which time parents and friends of the boys visit the camp and the boys entertained them with contests in boating, swimming, archery, small bore shooting, rope tying, string burning etc. The evening is brought to a close with a huge campfire at which the boys sing songs.

Thursday evening is the Order of the Arrow calling out ceremony at which time candidates for the order are chosen.

Friday evening's program "Troop Honor's Night" is the last campfire the boys have and at this time the honor awards for top-notch camping are presented. This program means a great deal to the boys, who have worked hard all week vying for top honors.

The Rainbow Council Boy Scouts of America is a Will County-Joliet Community Chest Agency.

Ever wonder why so many famous brands of bourbon are made in Kentucky? The explanation is that Kentucky abounds in limestone springs, the best type of water for making bourbon. It all started more than a hundred years ago when Dr. James Crow discovered a limestone spring near Frankfort and established his Old Crow distillery there.

Editor's note:
(A while ago the editor of this paper received a nice letter from Clarence Beagley from his home in Ontario, Calif. We appreciated the little orange blossom, picked from his garden, which he enclosed. He also enclosed a clipping from their newspaper, via United Press, telling of Mokena's old, old jail and how it is being used now as a house. We are glad to be able to get in a little friendly discussion with our friend Clarence, because that article was somewhat wrong. It stated that the jail has been used for many years as a house. That is wrong. It is only the past two years that it is so used. Anyway, we will be glad to receive a bouquet of roses from the 60 rose bushes and orange trees in the Beagley's yard. Come again.)

Tips on Traffic Safety
By
CHARLES F. CARPENTIER
Secretary of State

With heavy summer driving ahead of us this might be a good time to review road markings governing the passing of other vehicles on the highway.

Illinois highways for two lanes of traffic moving in opposite directions are divided in the middle by a center-line stripe. On concrete pavement a black line is used, while a white-dash line is used on darker surfaces. This center line should never be crossed unless passing a vehicle traveling in the same direction or when making a left turn—making sure beforehand that there is a safe distance between your vehicle and any vehicle coming from the opposite direction.

On hills, curves, and at other hazardous locations, a single yellow line or stripe is used to indicate no-passing-zones. It is illegal to pass another vehicle when the yellow line is on YOUR side of the highway. This also applies to crossing yellow lines on highways of three lanes of traffic. (Section 58b Uniform Act Regulating Traffic.)

Double yellow lines are used to divide a four lane highway. It is illegal for a motorist to cross the double yellow line. (Section 58b Uniform Act Regulating Traffic.)

A copy of the completely new "Rules of the Road" booklet will be sent to you free upon request. Write to CHARLES F. CARPENTIER, Secretary of State, Springfield, Illinois.

REDUCTION OF ACCIDENTS MEDICINE'S AIM, SAYS HEAD OF STATE DOCTORS

CHICAGO—An important phase of preventive medicine is the prevention of accidents, according to Dr. F. Lee Stone, who was inaugurated today as president of the Illinois State Medical Society.

He succeeded Dr. F. Garm Norbury of Jacksonville, Ill., as head of the nearly 10,000-member organization.

"For every accident that is avoided, there is freed that much of physician time and hospital service for the care of the sick, and for important research in the prevention and treatment of disease," Dr. Stone said.

"The profession has demonstrated that it can be effective in the prevention of accidents. Thousands of lives have been saved in plants, homes, offices and on the highways through the efforts of doctors."

Dr. Stone, who spent a part of his boyhood in Byron, Ill., before moving with his family to Chicago, predicted that in the future physicians will become even more active in educational programs to prevent accidents.

Born in St. Louis, January 4, 1885, Dr. Stone graduated from the University of Illinois College of Medicine in 1910. After two years of internship at Cook County Hospital, he practiced for a while in Beaver Crossing, Neb., before returning to Chicago, where he has served with distinction as an obstetrician and gynecologist for 42 years.

Dr. Stone, a veteran of World War I, is married and the father of two sons, one of whom is also a physician, and a daughter.

EDITORIAL That Curve Again

Ashland (Ky.) Independent
Except for the dangerous fiscal precedent involved, the President's original federal highway financing plan probably would have been in effect long ago.

What Congress objected to was the contemplated sale of highway revenue bonds outside the ordinary budget. In order for the bonds to find buyers they would have had to be supported at least indirectly by the Treasury's faith and credit. Therefore they would have constituted an ultimate lien against general revenues and would have been properly a part of the public debt regardless of any surface appearances to the contrary.

All this is interesting in view of a pending proposal by Senator Kerr of Oklahoma for an expansion of the Tennessee Valley Authority's power facilities through the sale of revenue bonds outside the ordinary budget. What's involved here is exactly the fiscal precedent Congress rejected in the case of the President's highway program.

As matters stand the taxpayers have $1.5 billion tied up in TVA's electric power facilities. In addition TVA has marketing affiliates valued at about $500 million dollars. Long ago it reached the limits of its hydro potential and has turned to steam generating plants for additional capacity. Of course, this is wholly contrary to the original TVA concept which envisioned the production and sale of power as an adjunct to the primary purpose of conservation.

In the circumstances the taxpayers in other states are becoming increasingly reluctant to put up any more money to subsidize the low power rates enjoyed by consumers in the area served by TVA. Congress is aware of this resentment and has been careful about making further appropriations for the indefinite expansion of TVA steam generating capacity.

But the Kerr proposal and others of similar intent would get Congress off the hook by removing the matter from the realm of congressional discretion. Under this new approach TVA could sell 50-year bonds without limit on total dollar amounts. Without further reference to Congress it could use the bond proceeds for expansion of its power functions in any way it

THE MAP above shows that there are nearly 4 million acres of rich, idle farm land in the midwest waiting to produce more food for the nation when needed. Despite this fact, the Federal Bureau of Reclamation wants Congress to approve the incredible Upper Colorado River Project which would cost the nation's taxpayers $4 billion in added taxes to "irrigate" 583,000 acres of arid mountain land in Colorado, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming. Figures for the idle midwestern land were obtained from the U. S. Soil Conservation Service. This land could be brought into production at a fraction of the cost of creating new agricultural lands in the Upper Colorado River Basin.

chose in including the duplication of services provided by tax-paying private utilities.

Congress would be deprived of any further review or control of TVA expenditures. TVA receipts and outlays no longer would be reflected in the government's surpluses and deficits although the government still would bear the ultimate fiscal responsibility.

This is bad enough, but even worse is the precedent that would be established for other federal agencies always covetous of more money than Congress is willing to appropriate. Every tax eating federal agency that wanted more money for capital investment purposes would have a ready precedent for floating bonds of its own outside the regular budget.

The eventual upshot could be a multiple federal budget with government corporations springing up in banyan fashion all over the country. No longer would the taxpayers have even the foggiest view of the public debt.

If the financing of highways outside the debt limit was morally wrong and fiscally irresponsible the same would be true of a similar dodge in behalf of TVA.

Tips on Traffic Safety

By
CHARLES F. CARPENTIER
Secretary of State

Just about one of the easiest ways for a motorist to become involved in an accident is to continually weave from one lane of traffic to the other.

In the continuous battle of some drivers to "save" a few seconds of time (at the risk of their lives) these motorists will pick up the ridiculously dangerous habit of weaving in and out of the lanes of traffic. That the driver puts little value on his own life is but one of the considerations. More important in this case is that he is willing to sacrifice the lives of others because of his lack of courtesy.

One can easily imagine the possibilities of an accident occurring when a driver weaves in and out just prior to making a turn. And as unbelievable as it may seem, some of these drivers have been known to weave in and out of traffic and then out in front of another vehicle to make a right hand turn. Also, such a motorist is unaware or unconcerned of the fact that such driving tactics are very apt to cause him to miss a traffic signal which could result in a serious accident.

A copy of the completely new "Rules of the Road" booklet will be sent to you free upon request. Write to CHARLES F. CARPENTIER, Secretary of State, Springfield, Illinois.

Transparents Make up Bulk of Early Apple Crop

Tart Transparent apples will make up the greater part of the Illinois early apple harvest, says Ross A. Kelly, University of Illinois fruit and vegetable marketing specialist. The 1956 early apple crop is expected to be one of the best in recent years.

These greenish yellow apples which are excellent for pies and sauce, will be harvested from June 24 in southern Illinois to late July in central and northern areas.

You may like to try this recipe for freezing apple sauce. Add one third cup of water to each quart of apple slices. Cook apples until tender.

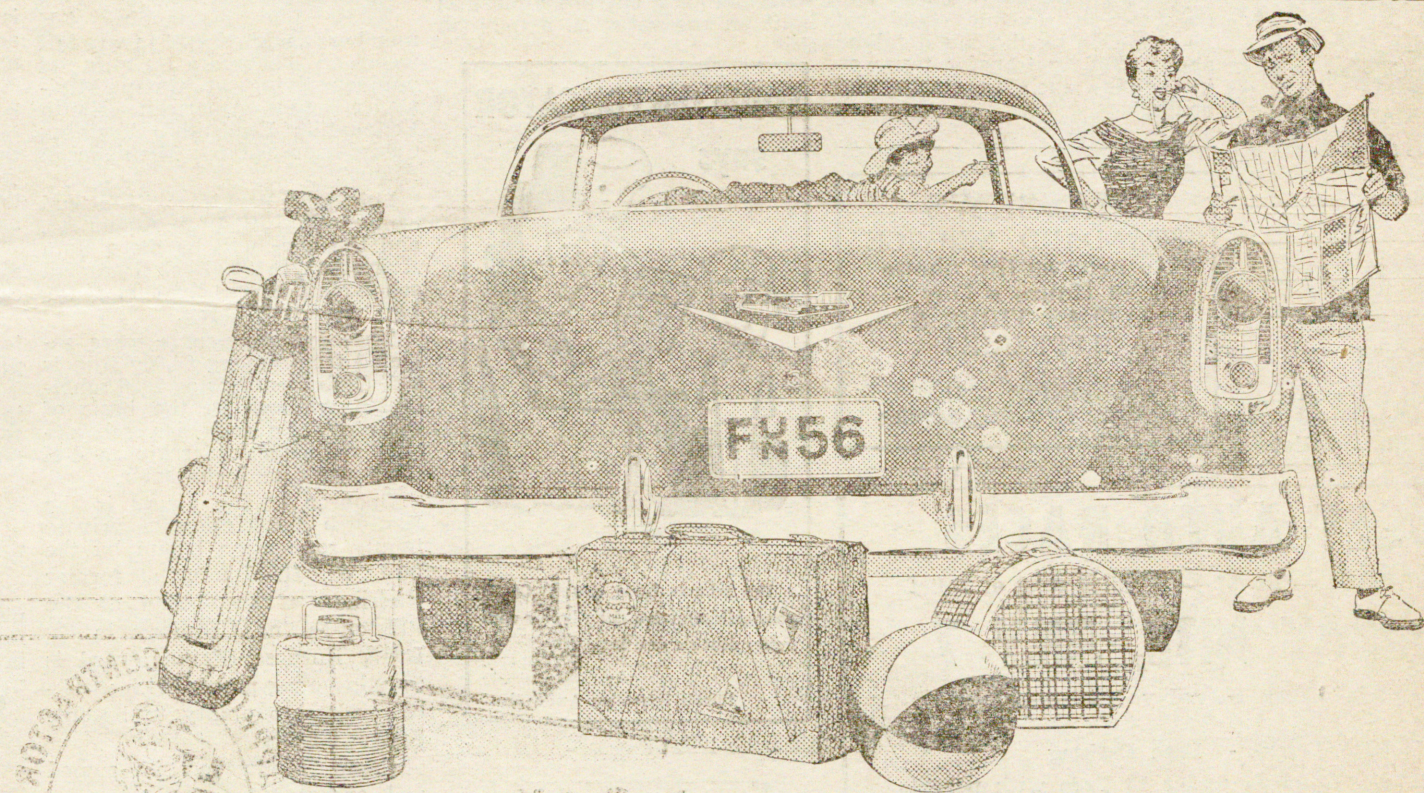

Cool and strain. Sweeten to suit taste, using one-fourth to three-fourths cup sugar for each quart. Put in freezer containers. Allow about one-half inch of head space in pint containers and about one inch in quart containers. Seal, label and freeze at zero or below.

Transparent apples are also considered fair for eating raw, but poor for baking.

The big things, though, are beautifully taken care of by this roomy Chevrolet's smooth and easy way of going. That's for sure.

The fact is, few cars at any price hold the road with Chevy's grace, with its solid feeling of stability. And with horsepower up to 225, Chevrolet moves out like a whiplash, for safer passing. It's no wonder that so many people who used to buy higher priced cars are changing to Chevrolet! Stop by soon for a ride.

period of time with current income.

Joseph A. Thorsen, of Joseph A. Thorsen Real Estate Co., said that some way was needed to relieve the oppression of real estate taxes. But he opposed the proposed revenue amendment on the basis that "it gives the legislature unlimited powers to impose any kind of taxes without limitations."

Mahin emphasized that school income from local tax sources is likely to be reduced downstate where people pay their personal property taxes.

"If the amendment carries, the legislature will have virtually unlimited power to classify all kinds of personal property, together with unlimited power to tax or authorize taxation of each such class at any rate from zero to 100 per cent, Mahin said.

"Every special interest lobby will be fighting at every session of the legislature for special treatment. If the legislature exempts any class of personal property from taxation or fixes a tax rate on any class lower than that on real estate or substitutes a state-collected tax on any class in lieu of the property tax, then school income will be cut."

Mahin charged that supporters of the amendment who are promising that the amendment will provide more money for schools and at the same time make it possible to take the sales tax off of food and other items are deceiving the people.

The state would suffer a net loss of many millions of dollars if the sales tax was taken off of food, Mahin pointed out, and the "loss of revenue could not be made up by the much talked about yield or transfer taxes on intangibles such as stocks and bonds."

Catch It! With Fishing Reel and Movie Reel

If your wife can't come along on your annual fishing trip, she can still see the sights! Just take a movie of the trip, complete with a close-up of the prize catch!

You'll enjoy the movie-making as much as the fishing, and there's no better way to convince the skeptics that you really did land the big one. What's more, according to experts of the Keystone Camera Co., leading maker of home movie cameras and projectors, you can now make "professional" looking movies without expensive equipment.

The new Zoom-Lens, for instance, available in an 8mm movie camera, now makes possible wide angle, regular and close-up shots, without changing lenses.

This means you can really get variety in your movies. But don't take just a series of random shots. Tell a story. It's fun and easy to prepare a simple scenario in advance, and let your wife help. When actually shooting, mix wide-angle shots of the scenery with close-ups of the big moments. You might try a slow motion shot, or a speed-up shot for laughs. The Zoom-Lens camera, which has four speeds, also has a built-in exposure guide and a three-way trigger release that permits regular run, continuous lock run, stop motion animation, and single frame exposure for titling.

Keystone experts have worked out a single-roll shooting script for your fishing trip movie, and you can vary it to suit any situation:

1. Ten feet, regular shot, showing you assembling equipment and loading it into car.

2. Five feet, close up, kissing your wife goodbye, then regular shot of "take-off."

3. Ten feet, wide angle, of scenery, boats, and close-up of guide and cook.

4. Ten feet, party setting out in boats (try speed-up shot here), with mixed shots of fishing activity.

5. Five feet, close-up of the big one.

6. Three feet, close-up of three-day growth of beard.

7. Eight feet showing loading of car for trip back.

A FINAL PRECAUTION: Make sure you catch some fish.

4-H's to Attend Danforth Camp

Lois Niehus, 20, Plainfield; Bernice Aden, 20, St. Joseph, Mich.; James Mueller, 20, Rock Island; and James Short, Jr., 18, Petersburg, are the Illinois delegates to Danforth Camp this year.

These four outstanding 4-H members will spend two full weeks in leadership training and outdoor living at Camp Miniwanca, the American Youth Foundation Leadership Training Camp near Shelby, Michigan in August.

Lois and Bernice will attend camp from July 30 to August 12, and the boys will be there from August 13 to 26. Each Danforth scholarship covers the cost of the two weeks in camp.

These young people were selected from among 64,000 Illinois 4-H Club members as 1956 scholarship winners on the basis of their athletic activities, scholarship standing, leadership in 4-H Club work and character.

Sponsor of the award is the Danforth Foundation, a private family foundation begun by the late W. H. Danforth, former chairman of the board of the Ralston-Purina Company in St. Louis. Purpose of the award is to help young people with marked leadership ability to become better leaders.

Camp Miniwanca is owned and operated by the American Youth Foundation, a non-profit, non-denominational Christian organization, to help young people develop their leadership abilities. It includes 300 acres about 35 miles north of Muskegon, Michigan, located on Stony Lake and Lake Michigan.

500 Varieties of Flowers are Seen In U. I. Trial Garden

One of the most complete trial gardens of flowering annuals and bedding plants in the Midwest is located on the University of Illinois campus. About 500 varieties are being grown, in addition to a sizable planting of iris and daylilies.

G. M. Fosler, University of Illinois floriculturist, reports that the garden is open to the public at all times.

All varieties grown in the trial garden are available commercially. Each variety is clearly labeled. The Division of Floriculture, which sponsors the garden, will give you information concerning sources of seed.

The Illinois trial garden is located on Goodwin Avenue, just two blocks north of Pennsylvania avenue and directly south of the floriculture greenhouses. Gardeners who are planning next year's garden, or who find it difficult to choose from catalog descriptions, should find it worth while to visit the garden.

The garden will be at its best from about July 1 until frost.

Outlines Aims Of Soil Bank

By W. F. Whiteside
Cook Co. Asst. Farm Adviser
The purpose of the new Soil Bank program as recently passed by the legislature are:

1. Reduce surpluses
2. Promote Soil Conservation
3. Bolster farm income

Any farmer can sign up in the program this year if he does so by July 20, 1956. In order to be eligible for any aspect of the Soil Bank the farm must be in compliance with the corn base and with the wheat allotment if it is in excess of 15 acres a minimum number of acres must be placed in the reserve. If the corn base is less than 5 acres all of the corn base must be placed in the acreage reserves. If the base is over 5 acres, the larger of 5 acres of 10 per cent of the base must be placed in the reserve.

There is also a maximum number of acres that can be placed in the reserve. The maximum is the larger of 50 per cent of the corn base or 50 acres, except that it cannot exceed the corn base.

Payment is based on the eligible acres times yield times county rate.

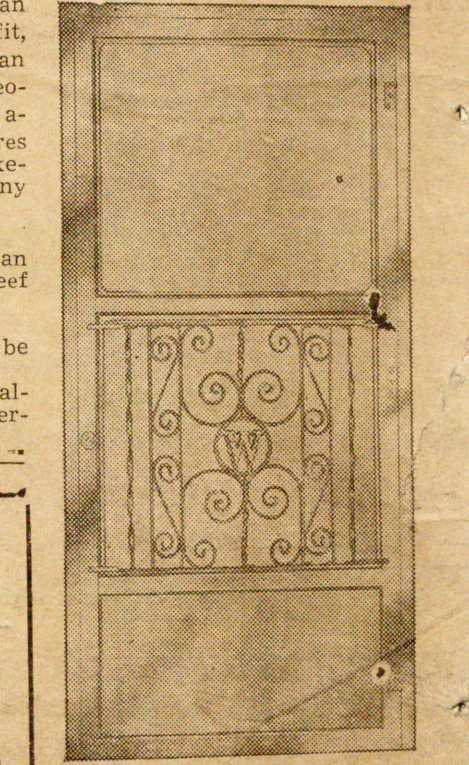

The program is quite simple to comply with and will be simple to administer.

Anyone interested in complying with the program for the 1956 crop year is urged to contact the A.S.C. Offices either at Tinley Park or Arlington Heights.

The last date for executing this program is July 20.
